1 See Box VIII.

2 Quite apart from the lack of clarity mentioned hereinbelow, it is also the case that the subject matter of claims 1 and 8-11 is not novel (PCT Article 33(2)), and therefore the requirements of PCT Article 33(1) have not been met.

2.1 Document D1 discloses (the references between parentheses relate to said document):

an apparatus (1) for gripping containers (2), having a driving and actuating element (52, 53) which causes the gripper arms (27) to be opened

Box No. V Reasoned statement under Rule 43bis.1(a)(i) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement and closed, wherein the gripping apparatus (1) consists substantially of two subassemblies, wherein the first subassembly comprises the components (20-22, 27, 44, 43, 53) which are subjected to a pronounced level of wear and the second, machine-mounted subassembly comprises components (15, 18) which are not subjected to any wear, wherein the first subassembly and the second subassembly can be connected to one another such that they can be easily separated.

The subject matter of claim 1 thus lacks novelty (PCT Article 33(2)). It should also be noted that documents D2-D4 are also prejudicial to the novelty of claim 1.

2.2 Since the additional features of claims 2-5 and 7-11 are known from at least one of documents D1-D4, it is likewise the case that these claims do not meet the requirements of the PCT (PCT Article 33(1)) in respect of novelty (PCT Article 33(2)).

3 Claim 6 meets the requirements of the PCT (PCT Article 33(1)) in respect of novelty (PCT Article 33(2)) and inventive step (PCT Article 33(3)).

Box No. VIII      Certain observations on the international application

The following observations on the clarity of the claims, description, and drawings or on the question whether the claims are fully supported by the description, are made:

4            The application does not meet the requirements of PCT Article 6 because claims 1-7 are unclear:

- the expressions "subassembly", "pronounced level of wear", "machine-mounted" and "can be easily separated" are unclear and therefore cannot be used in order to delimit the invention from the prior art;

- the expression "components which are not subjected to any wear" is incorrect for characterizing a sliding rod, and the expression "mounted in a pivotable manner" does not correspond to a connection between two subassemblies, wherein two latching extensions of the bearing element of the first subassembly engage in two apertures of the installation element of the second subassembly; these expressions have therefore not been taken into consideration for the purpose of examining the claims;

- the claims disclose features without defining the technical relationships thereof to the other features.
