2. COMMUNICATION:

The International Bureau acknowledges receipt of Article 19 amendments received on 23 April 2012.

Although the applicant has submitted an accompanying letter together with the Article 19 amendments, it would appear, however, that the applicant did not indicate the basis of the amendments in the application as filed (except for claim 1), as required by Rule 46.5(b)(iii). The applicant is hereby invited to furnish the indication of the basis of the amendment which appears to be missing within a time limit of ONE MONTH from the date of mailing of this notification or within the time limit under Rule 46.1, whichever expires later.

The applicant's attention is drawn to the fact that the IPEA is entitled to disregard any Article 19 amendments for the purposes of the international preliminary examination if the applicant fails to indicate the basis of the amendments (see Rule 70.2(c-bis)). Furthermore, some designated or elected Office might also disregard such Article 19 amendments.

Furthermore, you are kindly requested to confirm that the comments indicated in your letter dated 23 April 2012 should be processed separately as "informal comments to the Written Opinion of the International Searching Authority".

For more information on the options available to applicants for responding to the written opinion of the ISA, see the Practical Advice in the PCT Newsletter, October 2004, and March 2005, available on our Website at:

Finally, the Article 19 amendments were timely received under Rule 46.1, however, a clean set should be submitted for publication purposes.

Failure to respond within one month from the date of the present communication will result in the accompanying text/amended claims being disregarded by the International Bureau.
