1. This opinion contains indications relating to the following items:

- Box No. I Basis of the opinion
- Box No. II Priority
- Box No. III Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability
- Box No. IV Lack of unity of invention
- Box No. V Reasoned statement under Rule 43bis.1(a)(i) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement
- Box No. VI Certain documents cited
- Box No. VII Certain defects in the international application
- Box No. VIII Certain observations on the international application

2. FURTHER ACTION

If a demand for international preliminary examination is made, this opinion will be considered to be a written opinion of the International Preliminary Examining Authority ("IPEA") except that this does not apply where the applicant chooses an Authority other than this one to be the IPEA and the chosen IPEA has notified the International Bureau under Rule 66.1bis(b) that written opinions of this International Searching Authority will not be so considered.

If this opinion is, as provided above, considered to be a written opinion of the IPEA, the applicant is invited to submit to the IPEA a written reply together, where appropriate, with amendments, before the expiration of 3 months from the date of mailing of Form PCT/ISA/220 or before the expiration of 22 months from the priority date, whichever expires later.

For further options, see Form PCT/ISA/220.

Box No. I Basis of this opinion

1. With regard to the language, this opinion has been established on the basis of:
 - the international application in the language in which it was filed
 - a translation of the international application into _____, which is the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international search (Rules 12.3(a) and 23.1(b)).
2. This opinion has been established taking into account the rectification of an obvious mistake authorized by or notified to this Authority under Rule 91 (Rule 43*bis*.1(a))
3. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application, this opinion has been established on the basis of a sequence listing filed or furnished:
 - a. (means)
 - on paper
 - in electronic form
 - b. (time)
 - in the international application as filed
 - together with the international application in electronic form
 - subsequently to this Authority for the purposes of search
4. In addition, in the case that more than one version or copy of a sequence listing has been filed or furnished, the required statements that the information in the subsequent or additional copies is identical to that in the application as filed or does not go beyond the application as filed, as appropriate, were furnished.
5. Additional comments:

solution through application of voltage wherein the timing of desalination is gauged by measuring the quality of a desalinated solution and a concentrated solution. Document 1 (paragraphs [0014]-[0019], fig. 2, 3) indicates that the adsorption and desorption of ions is controlled by measuring electrical conductivity and discloses variation diagrams of electrical conductivity.

Consequently, a person skilled in the art could easily use the flow-through capacitor disclosed in document 1 as a functional water production device, use the change point at which the rate of change in electrical conductivity changes for determining the adsorption and desorption of ions, and take the point at which a non-linear change occurs as the change point.

The invention as in claims 3-7 does not involve an inventive step in the light of documents 1-3 cited in the ISR.

Document 2 (claims 1, 2) discloses a flow-through capacitor wherein the adsorption and desorption of ions are controlled by measuring the current value between electrodes. Thus, a person skilled in the art could easily compute electrical conductivity on the basis of change in electrical current in the flow-through capacitor disclosed in document 1, determine the change in the rate of electrical conductivity on the basis of linear change, and control the adsorption and desorption of ions.

Moreover, running a constant current in a flow-through capacitor is a common practice, as disclosed in, for example, document 3 (paragraph [0011]).

It is not considered particularly difficult to
